STANDARDS OF CONDUCT AND DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURES

Each employee has an obligation to observe and follow Forty 1° North's policies and to maintain proper standards of conduct at all times. Most employees try to do their jobs well and cooperate in observing common sense rules of conduct. However, disciplinary action is sometimes necessary. Generally speaking, if an individual's behavior interferes with the orderly and efficient operation of a department or work unit, corrective disciplinary measures will be taken. The severity of the disciplinary action depends upon, among other things, the nature and gravity of the offense, its impact on the organization, and the employee's work record. Forty 1° North does not guarantee that one form of disciplinary action will necessarily precede another. Further, Forty 1° North reserves the right, at all times, to take whatever disciplinary action it deems appropriate, up to and including termination. Prior notification, utilizing the procedures outlined above, is not a prerequisite for termination or other disciplinary action. Certain forms of serious misconduct and performance deficiencies may result in suspension or discharge, without prior counseling. Examples of the types of violations which may subject an employee to immediate discharge include, but are not limited to: violation of Company policies; insubordination or insolence; threatened or actual physical violence; possession, use or sale of controlled substances while on Company business or on Company property; coming to work under the influence of alcohol or controlled substances; poor performance; theft; harassment; unauthorized modification to or deletion of electronic files, including computer and cellular telephone records and contacts; and knowingly false, fraudulent or defamatory statements about another employee or a client of Forty 1° North. Please note that the above-listings not all inclusive, as the nature and seriousness of other violations may warrant disciplinary action up to and including termination. Forty 1° North reserves the right to restrict any former employee, who has resigned or had his or her employment terminated for any reason, from entering Company premises, whether as a customer or otherwise.
